4. Merit selection established by executive order in Delaware, Maine, Maryland, Massachusetts, and New Hampshire. In all other jurisdictions merit selection established by constitutional or statutory provision.

5. Incumbent reapplies to nominating commission and competes with other applicants for nomination by the governor. The governor may reappoint the incumbent or another nominee. The senate confirms the appointment.

6. Initial appointment is made by the President of the United States and confirmed by the Senate. Six months prior to the expiration of the term of office, the judge's performance is reviewed by the tenure commission. Those found "Well Qualified" are automatically reappointed. If a judge is found to be "Qualified" the President may nominate the judge for an additional term (subject to Senate confirmation). If the President does not wish to reappoint the judge, the District of Columbia Nomination Commission compiles a new list of candidates.

14. Merit selection established by executive order in Delaware, Maine, Maryland, Massachusetts, and New Hampshire. In all other jurisdictions merit selection established by constitutional or statutory provision.

15. The governor's nomination is subject to the approval of a five-member executive council.

16. The chief justice of the supreme court assigns superior court judges to serve on the appellate division of the superior court.

17. All vacancies are filled through a merit selection process. At the next general election, the appointee competes in a partisan election to serve the remainder of the unexpired term. The winner runs in a retention election for subsequent terms.

18. Incumbent reapplies to nominating commission and competes with other applicants for nomination to the governor. The governor may reappoint the incumbent or another nominee. The senate confirms the appointment.

19. Although party affiliations for judicial candidates are not listed on the general election ballot, candidates are nominated in partisan primary elections.

20. South Carolina has a 10 member Judicial Merit Selection Commission that screens judicial candidates and reports the findings to the state's General Assembly. Since 1997, the Assembly is restricted to voting only on those candidates found qualified by the Judicial Merit Selection Commission. However, the nominating commission itself is not far removed from the ultimate appointing body, and cannot be considered to be nonpartisan as control over member nominations is vested in majority party leadership. Although most nominating commissions contain members appointed by the governor or legislature, no other commissions actually contain the governor or current legislators who have final approval over the candidate as voting members of the commission. In contrast, the Judicial Merit Selection Commission in South Carolina contains 6 current members of the General Assembly appointed by the Speaker of the House of Representatives, the Chairman of the Senate Judiciary Committee, and the President Pro Tempore of the Senate. State legislators also choose the remaining 4 members of the Commission who are selected from the general public.
